

Call for Papers Volume 13 (August / September 2018)

The editors of Online – Heidelberg Journal of Religions on the Internet (<http://heiu.uni-heidelberg.de/journals/index.php/religions/>) invite researchers of all disciplines to hand in articles on their research dealing with religions on the internet and other digital environments (e.g. videogames) for the next regular issue 13 (2018) – due for publication in August / September 2018. We are looking forward to receiving the title and a short abstract of planned articles until 1st of March.

Online HJRI is an international open-access, peer-reviewed academic journal published by the Institute of Religious Studies at the University of Heidelberg (Germany). The journal is committed to promoting and (theoretically and methodically) advancing scientific research at the interface between religion and the internet and digital media.

The editors welcome submissions from all academic disciplines and perspectives (e.g. Religious Studies, Game Studies, Social Studies, Cultural Studies, Media Studies, Theology, Anthropology, etc.) focusing on general and specific issues of religion and digital media, e.g. religion in videogames. Additionally, we encourage authors to review (new) books dealing with subjects relevant to the journal's scopes.

Authors are expected to present their research in terms of relevant theoretical and / or methodological discussions and to be of interest to a wide, but mainly academic audience in a manner intelligible not only to specialists. Online HJRI is looking forward to submissions and inquiries of any kind. Please contact online.religion@zegk.uni-heidelberg.de.

Important dates and deadlines for issue 13 (2018)

(subject to change)

- March 1st: submission of title and abstract
- April 1st: notification on the acceptance of your proposal by the editors.
- June 1st: submission deadline for full article.
- July 1st: Deadline for comments, requests of revisions by the editors (if necessary).
- August 1st: Submission deadline for revised articles.
- August / September: Publication of the online journal

Please send your abstract and / or further inquiries to the following e-mail address:
online.religion@zegk.uni-heidelberg.de.