
Table of Contents

Markus Viehbeck

Introduction: Cultural History as a History of Encounters—
A “Contact Perspective” 1

Part I: Christian Mission, Educational Institutions, and Identity Formation 23

Jayeeta Sharma

Kalimpong as a Transcultural Missionary Contact Zone 25

Andrew J. May

Our Miniature Heaven: Forming Identities at Dr Graham’s Homes 55

Charisma K. Lepcha

The Scottish Mission in Kalimpong and the Changing Dynamics of Lepcha Society 71

Part II: Public Spheres, Public Media, and the Creation of Public Knowledge 93

Clare Harris

Photography in the “Contact Zone”: Identifying Copresence and Agency in the Studios of Darjeeling 95

Anna Sawerthal and Davide Torri

Imagining the Wild Man: Yeti Sightings in Folktales and Newspapers of the Darjeeling and Kalimpong Hills 121

Prem Poddar and Lisa Lindkvist Zhang

Kalimpong: The China Connection 149

Part III: Things that Connect: Economies and Material Culture 175

Emma Martin

Object Lessons in Tibetan: The Thirteenth Dalai Lama, Charles Bell, and Connoisseurial Networks in Darjeeling and Kalimpong, 1910–12 177

Tina Harris

Wool, Toothbrushes, and Beards: Kalimpong and the “Golden Era” of Cross-Border Trade 205

Amy Holmes-Tagchungdarpa

Sacred Economies of Kalimpong: The Eastern Himalayas in the Global Production and Circulation of Buddhist Material Culture 223

Part IV: Scholars, Power, and Knowledge Production 243

Trine Brox and Miriam Koktvedgaard Zeitzen

Prince Peter’s Seven Years in Kalimpong: Collecting in a Contact Zone 245

Markus Viehbeck

“The First Tibetan at a Western University?”—Entanglements of Scholarship, Buddhism, and Power in Kalimpong and Beyond 273

Kalzang Dorjee Bhutia

Looking Beyond the Land of Rice: Kalimpong and Darjeeling as Modern Buddhist Contact Zones for Sikkimese Intellectual Communities 301

Epilogue 319

Prem Poddar and Cheralyn Mealor

Kalimpong as Fiction or Ethnography? Gorkha/Nepali Sensitivities in the Himalayas 321

List of Contributors 347